

ODACHI

Odachi

Forging and heat treating a 49" blade is a tough task but the Hanwei smiths have mastered the technique to bring you our functional and historically accurate Odachi, replicating a 14th century original. With Hanwei's usual attention to detail, the Odachi's forged 65Mn blade is differentially quenched (not easy on a blade of this length) with a notare Hamon. Traditional iron fittings complement the rayskin Same and Japanese cotton Tsuka-Ito. The Saya is finished in black lacquer. The power of the Odachi is amply demonstrated as James Williams slices through an 8-mat Goza with ease.
